

T568A and T568B Standards

Category: Microservices

written by Mbsm.tn | 19 February 2025

The T568A and T568B standards define the arrangement of wires inside RJ-45 network cables, where each standard specifies a different color order, affecting how cables are connected to devices. The choice between them depends on compatibility with existing infrastructure or personal preference.